About Zoom

- Zoom has a number of features, such as polling and breakout rooms, that help facilitate effective meetings.

- Zoom.com has a number of tutorials and instructions to help with all of these functions.

- Some to pay attention to:

    - Setting up an option that allows zoom to call participants (vs participants having to call in or join by computer) can help with bandwidth and access issues.

    - Zoom – bombing: rooms can be disrupted by hackers, including those who have made racist and other inappropriate disruptions. There are a variety of ways to secure your rooms that provide varying degrees of security or limitations on functionality. For the training, ICL created a waiting room and only permitted registered participants to enter. Some trainings will also have a password.

    - This article explores some of the controls and how/when to use them to prevent zoom bombing and other disruptions: https://www.pcmag.com/how-to/how-to-prevent-zoom-bombing
